WHAT WILL WE DO WITH JESUS OF NAZARETH? WHAT WILL WE DO WITH THE CARPENTER KING?

Judas, like many of us, had been caught up in serving a man, a leader of the people who had great possibilities of doing good and now at Easter He was proving to be a different person than the simple carpenter. If He had remained so, we could have handled Him; but that was not to be. That part of Jesus upset Judas. As long as He stayed a bright alert man, simply a smart carpenter, a great unknown, He's have caused nobody harm; but now we know He's different, and like Judas, we become frightened. This Jesus was teachin about a new kingdom. He taught about the ete nal life and about heaven and people were be lieving this nonsense. These "Followers of the Way", said Judas, had "Too much heaven on their minds". The concern Judas had with Jesus, is our problem. We came to church to learn about morality and giving to the poor and Jesus talks about change - being born again - turning the other cheek, making a right about face in our lives, loving people whom we'd rather not love, laying down our life for our friends, organizing against hun ger, choosing a whole new way of life and go ing to rooms eternal and in the heavens. Lik Judas, we did not bargain for this! What, then, will we do with Jesus of Nazareth? What will we do with the carpenter King? That is the question which haunts us and es- pecially at Easter.

This booklet is a tribute of remembrance and love for persons who have formed and shaped our lives and our faith and shown us the way. They have gone before us to the land where Jesus rules and reigns. Some of them were grandparents, some our mothers and fathers, some children, some brothers and sisters and some close and dear friends. As "Followers Of The Way," we join millions of Christians down throughout the centuries in expressing appreciation to Jesus, the Carpenter King. His amazing grace bought us the gift of eternal life.

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, from henceforth; yes, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them". Amen.
