Pray for Us!

Cassie Bernal's parents prayed for their precious daughter. She had walked away from the values of her youth and dabbled in the occult. She had become rebellious and angry. They decided to try tough love. They barred the door when necessary, screened her friends, and restricted her freedom.

And they prayed for Cassie.

One weekend, on a youth retreat with her church, God answered her parent's prayers. Cassie was touched by God and turned her life over to Jesus Christ. She stood and testified to her faith and became an active witness for the Lord. Her fellow students knew that she was a disciple of Jesus Christ.

Her parents continued to pray for her. One fateful day, she stared at the opening of a gun and the voice on the other end insisted on knowing if she believed in God. She said, "Yes."

And those were her last words and they have been repeated over and over again in high schools and churches and in the media.

I find it easy to pray for my brothers and sisters to enjoy good health, safety, and prosperity, but Paul bypassed those requests and asked His friends to pray that God's word would prosper through his life and witness. That was the prayer that God answered in Cassie's life and in Paul's. Are you willing to ask for the same?

As I write these words I am hearing news reports of a gunman entering a church in Texas and executing a group of believers in a youth prayer meeting. O Lord, may Thy word, even so, have free course, and be glorified.
