

1995

Mothers
are gentleness,
patience,
love,
faith and peace

Because it's Mother's Day, I'm remembering your gifts to me.
That sense of life: everything fascinating, everything possible.

You were my first, best teacher - your lessons took well. "Is this your best work? or fingering a puckered seam, maybe you could taste before you sew." The pressure was subtle, a combination of this-is-how-and-i'm-sure-you're-not-satisfied-with-that. And so I discovered by degrees the singular pleasure of work well done.

What else did you teach me? How to lay out a dress pattern when there isn't quite enough fabric or how to pack a car. I learned not to be idle. There is always something to do - the ideal being two things at once. I learned to improvise, make over and make do - Life is doing.

Beyond all lessons, beyond the model you provided, you gave me the ultimate gift: you made me feel loved and good. You pay attention, you listen, you accept me, without qualification. Your pleasure in me is as visible as sunshine.

I am truly my mother's daughter.
