

Then he took unto him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of man shall be accomplished.
(Luke 18:31)

Christ the Lord is Risen Today, Alleluia!

Ah, the joy of Easter! The crowning moment of Easter morning, the moment when the tomb is discovered empty, releases a flood of joy which nothing can stem. Revealed through the empty tomb is the fulfillment of God's new covenant, a covenant which has restored all of creation into right relationship with its Creator.

Easter is a powerful story. It tells us that God's love endures all things. The betrayal, abandonment, torture, and death of Holy Week have not stopped the power of God's love. Easter morning is the climax of the message of Jesus' life, the message that nothing can separate us from the love of God.

It is no wonder that Easter morning is filled with Alleluias. Easter assures us that in spite of all the things that are wrong in our world, in spite of all the things that are wrong in us, the resurrected Christ has made them right.

This redemption of the world brought about by the resurrection is our joy. It is the Good News we are to take with us into the world as we leave the tomb. It is the Good News we hold to as we are surrounded by the death and destruction of war, or as we feel the absence of one, who for the first time, is not here on Easter. It is the Good News, that in face of all these things, allows us to sing Alleluia. This Easter may all of your Alleluias be filled with joy.

In Christ's love,
Rev. Cathy

For the kingdom of heaven is as a man travelling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods.... For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath.

Matthew 25:14, 29

WE REMEMBER OUR LOVED ONES ON MOTHER'S DAY
MAY 11, 2003

Can a woman forget her nursing child, or show no compassion for the child of her womb? Even these may forget, yet I will not forget you. See, I have inscribed you on the palms of my hands;
Isaiah 49:15-16

I remember when I was a little; I looked at my parents as if they were the repository of all knowledge. They knew everything!!! Or so I thought. As I have grown into adulthood and have watched people around me become parents, I understand that my mom and dad weren't experts. They were just good people trying to do the best for the family they loved.

It is out of love that wise decisions are made possible, and because of love parents are seen as the keepers of wisdom. I often tell people who are struggling with making difficult decisions, that all God asks is that their choice be made out of love for those involved.

I believe it takes brave people to be parents because of this willingness to be responsible for all the difficult choices one must make in the course of a life. Parents have no idea what future lies ahead for them when they hold their newborn in their arms. And so perhaps the greatest courage a parent can demonstrate is their trust in the One they know holds the future.

Love, wisdom, bravery, faith; these are just a few of the gifts that God would have us experience through Mothers and Fathers. Mother's Day is a time to say thank you to the women in our lives who have been this source of loving wisdom. For some of us that woman may not have been our biological mother, and so Mother's Day can be bitter-sweet. For others of us, it is easy to celebrate Mother's day because these things have been present in our lives for as far back as we can remember. For others, Mother's Day may be a painful reminder that this magnificent woman is no longer available to impart her wisdom, or share her love.

Whatever the case may be, and whoever God has used in your life to bring you the love of a Mother; may you be reminded on this Mother's Day that these gifts are always available from the One who knit you together in your Mother's womb. That, I'm sure, is what every Mother would want us to know. Happy Mother's Day!

FATHER'S DAY

Memorials and Love Gifts

June 15, 2003

As God Loves You

Recently as I talked with a young couple who were preparing to be married, they admitted to being guilty of taking one another for granted. I think that we often do that with those who are closest to us. We get so comfortable with their presence that we forget to recognize them; we neglect to share with them what they mean to us.

I encouraged this couple to be more intentional with sharing those intimate feelings as it is the only way that their relationship would deepen and continue to thrive. Times like Fathers Day are opportunities for us to express those things we always mean to say to the people in our lives, but sometimes neglect to say.

I spent some time reading several poems written by different people about fathers and fatherhood. Some of them were written by fathers themselves as they reflected on what being a father meant to them. Poems are a special way by which we express ourselves; they help us to express strong emotional feelings that we have deep within us which we find difficult to verbalize. Oftentimes when people experience a deep grief, they find themselves writing poetry. The same goes with expressing love.

In these poems about fathers I found powerful sentiments of love, admiration, gratitude, and pride. I also found deep expressions of anxiety, grief, estrangement, and even hate. All of these emotions are a reality on Fathers Day, as not all relationships with fathers bring warm feelings. It is important that all of these feelings be expressed, the pleasant as well as the unpleasant, especially if we have neglected to say them. It is important because it will deepen all our relationships with those who are close to us.

This memorial book is another powerful way by which we express ourselves concerning the fathers who have been in our lives. The love that has graced our lives by the men whose names are listed in these pages, stands in stark contrast to what others may have known from their fathers. So on this Fathers Day, I leave you with the poem below. May it be that no matter what emotions come to you on this day, you may come to know in your heart that God intended a father's love to be like that of God's love for you.

Happy Fathers Day,
Rev. Cathy

As God Loves You

The best example of what a father should be ...

(Begins with the heart & bended knee,
Asking the Father for guidance to see,
Teaching each step - a humble plea,
Nurturing the soul, then setting it free)
To love and be loved, as God loves thee.

Totenfest Sunday Memorials
November 23, 2003

The Lord is my shepherd,
I shall not be in want
He makes me lie down in green pastures,
he leads me beside quiet waters,
he restores my soul.
He guides me in paths of righteousness
for his name's sake.
Even though I walk
through the valley of the shadow of death,
I will fear no evil,
for you are with me;
your rod and your staff,
they comfort me.

You prepare a table before me
in the presence of my enemies.
You anoint my head with oil;
my cup overflows.
Surely goodness and love will follow me
all the days of my life,
and I will dwell in the house of the LORD
forever.

PSALM 23 NIV

"Behold, I am making all things new." – Rev. 21:6

The celebration of Totenfest reminds us of the mystical nature of the Church. In seminary I had to write papers stating my understanding of the Church. I soon realized that there are not enough words to cover that topic. In essence, the Church, like the God it worships, is beyond definition.

We have all heard over and over again that the Church is not a building, the Church is the people in the building. And yet the Church is so much more than our gatherings on Sunday morning. The Church is wherever and whenever 2 or 3 are gathered in the name of Christ. And still there is more to the Church than worship. As we are in worship right now, the Church somewhere is feeding the hungry; right now the Church somewhere is protecting the helpless; right now the Church somewhere is at rest because it is night.

Totenfest tells us that beyond this horizontal component of the Church which is spread out across the earth, there is also a vertical component. That while we are busy being the Church in all sorts of places and in all sorts of ways, we are connected to a Church that is beyond this dimension. In Revelation, John gives us a glimpse of this dimension as he talks about the multitude from every nation standing before the throne of the Lamb.

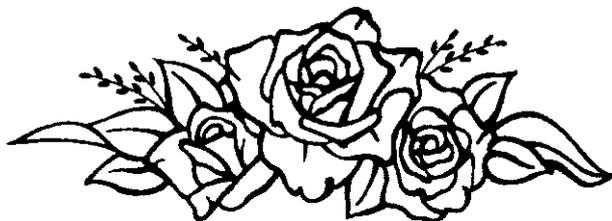

The Book of Revelation is chock-full of symbolism. Symbols are ways through which we express ourselves when there are not enough words. Symbols convey a truth about God that is simply beyond definition. The vertical Church is something that can not be defined, and so in Revelation we are given symbols.

Look around the sanctuary and reflect on our Christian symbols: the cross, the baptismal font, the bread and the wine. These items speak to us without saying a word. For Totenfest we also use symbols. As we celebrate our communion with the vertical Church, we light candles to signify a truth beyond words.

Faith is a willingness to accept this mystery of God, a mystery that will never be explained until we become a part of that vertical Church. And yet I think it is our nature to seek for a more definitive understanding on which to hang our hopes. And so in the midst of all the symbols and the mystery of this day, I leave you with the words which Christ spoke to John in the midst of his revelation; "Behold, I am making all things new." May these words bring you peace in your communion with the Saints.

In Christ's love,
Rev. Cathy

Luke 2:13-14

Go Tell it on the Mountain
Over the Hill and Everywhere
Go Tell it on the Mountain
That Jesus Christ is born!

Merry Christmas Everyone!

The celebration of Christmas always brings with it a flood of memories of Christmas' past. Growing up, our family celebration was always held on Christmas Eve. Even though going to church was not a part of the evening festivities, my memories are filled with feelings of the love which Christmas is all about.

The best part of the whole night was when my older sister would take all of us younger ones into the bedroom and read us a story of Christmas. Our story time was always interrupted by the sound of Santa's sleigh bells; but by the time we got into the living room to see what was happening, Santa had already made his exit, leaving behind a room full of presents. Even though as I got older and realized that this sequestered time in the bedroom was designed to allow the adults to move the gifts from their hiding places to under the tree, this story time continued to hold a special place in my heart for it was a vehicle through which the love of God came to me. I will always remember Christmas Eve as the night we hear a story laced with love.

Tonight, in the Gospel of Luke we hear this story which is laced with love, as we hear the story of Jesus' birth. So great is this story of love that it has been heard over and over and over again, for hundreds and hundreds of years, and in hundreds and hundreds of languages. But for stories to be heard, there must be those who tell them.

This year as we hear once again this wondrous story, we are also filled with memories of the wonderful people who told it to us. In the pages that follow you will find name after name after name of the people who have told the story of God's love; these ones are the vehicles through which God's love came into our lives.

On this special tonight, as we celebrate the gift of a Son, the One through whom God's love is sent, we also remember how Jesus was born into each of our lives because of these who loved us enough to tell us the story. May each of us be enfolded within this love of God during this Christmas season.

In Christ's love,

Rev. Cathy

LOVE GIFTS

Carol and Clarence Rowell have given a Love Gift to the church with love and thanks for God's many blessings bestowed upon their family!

A love gift has been given to the church by the Ladies Organization of United Evangelical Church.

The Church Council and Pastor Cathy appreciate the gifts represented in this booklet.

We wish to thank our volunteer collators for taking time
from their busy schedule to assemble this booklet for us.

We regret any errors made in the publishing of this booklet.
