

ALLELUIA!

"Christ the Lord is Risen Today! Alleluia!"

There are few words which can fully describe the joy that Easter morning brings. With the dawning of this glorious day, peace and serenity come to replace despair and sorrow. The revelation of the empty tomb brings an eternal hope, for it is an event that is not confined to the first Easter morning. The Power of the resurrection continues to reveal the Risen Christ to the hopeless and desperate people and places of our world today. The joy of Easter morning is released over and over again, Alleluia!

It is true that even as the Church celebrates, there are many places and things in our lives where we continue to wait for the dawning of the day of resurrection. Yet on this morning of celebration, we have joy for we have the utter assurance that in spite of war, death, and despair, God makes all things new.

On this Easter day, though we continue to see the darkness of Good Friday, may we also know the joy which the fulfillment of the promises of God brings; for Christ is risen! Christ is risen indeed!

*Blessing,
Rev. Cathy*

Alleluia!
He is risen.

Mother's Day

MAY 9, 2004

Happy Mother's Day

*Where you go, I will go;
where you lodge, I will lodge;
your people shall be my people,
and your God my God.*

Ruth 1:16

Holidays like Mother's Day are times when we celebrate the unconditional, undefeated love that is possible in human relationships. The above quote from the book of Ruth is an example of this love. Ruth's mother-in-law, Naomi, was convinced that such love would no longer be a part of her life after the death of her husband and her children. Ruth astonished Naomi with her words.

That is what unconditional love does – it astonishes us. Perhaps it is because such love is so rare a gift in this life. When we do experience it, it is not something we soon forget, nor do we want to forget. And so we memorialize it in some way, just as we have with the book of Ruth, making it a part of sacred scripture. The love she showed Naomi is something that will be shared with generations upon generations.

The Bible can be seen as a compilation of human experiences which point to our God as the source of that unconditional love which we find through one another. This memorial book too is about women who have made unconditional love a reality in our lives. And so we can consider these pages as sacred as well, for they share experiences of the love which ultimately flows from God.

Today as we remember the women in our lives who have honored God through their gifts of undefeated, unconditional love, may it be that we too are creating memories of astonishing love with those around us which will be shared for generations to come. Happy Mother's Day!

Rev. Cathy

A Mother's Love

There is no love, like a mother's love,
no stronger bond on earth...
like the precious bond that comes from God,
to a mother, when she gives birth.

A mother's love is forever strong,
never changing for all time...
and when her children need her most,
a mother's love will shine.

God bless these special mothers,
God bless them every one...
for all the tears and heartache,
and for the special work they've done.

When her days on earth are over,
a mother's love lives on...
through many generations,
with God's blessings on each one.

Be thankful for our mothers,
for they love with a higher love...
from the power God has given,
and the strength from up above.

FATHER'S DAY

June 20, 2004

THE HISTORY OF FATHER'S DAY

In 1909 in Spokane, Washington, Sonara Smart Dodd was listening to a Mother's Day sermon. Her mother had died and her father had raised his six children on his own. In her eyes, her father was courageous, selfless, and loving, and she wanted her father to know how special he was to her. Choosing the month of June because her father was born in June, Sonara chose to hold the first Father's Day in Spokane on June 19, 1910.

In 1924 President Calvin Coolidge proclaimed the 3rd Sunday in June as Father's Day.

Words of a Father

In the Gospels, Jesus used many words to describe his heavenly Father. Some of those words are: wise, gracious, intimately close, strong, loving, compassionate, just, gentle, merciful. On this Father's day, I invite you to take a few minutes to think of the words that you would use to describe your father.

While you may use some of the words Jesus did, you probably wouldn't use them all; no one is meant to be all things. God has gifted everyone differently. Perhaps your father was quiet and gentle; perhaps your father was fun-loving and boisterous; perhaps your father was serious and strong. Or perhaps you would not use any of Jesus' words for your father. Instead words like alcoholic, abusive, or absent come to mind when you think of your father.

It is with thanksgiving that we can place some of these words which Jesus used next to the names of the men who appear in this book. For those of us who can do this, the loss of such a man from our lives leaves an emptiness; the realization of lost love. For those of us who can not use Jesus' words, there too is an emptiness; the desire to know a father like Jesus'.

As you think of words for your father, I invite you to hear words of your Father uttered in scripture for you.

"From the very beginning I have called you by name. You are mine and I am yours. You are precious in my sight, and honored, and I love you. I have counted every hair on your head, and have carved you in the palms of my hands. Wherever you go, I go with you, wherever you are, I will be. Nothing will ever separate us. You belong to me."

May these words be what fills any emptiness which this day may bring.

Happy Father's Day,
Rev. Cathy

Totenfest Sunday Memorials
November 21, 2004

In the 19th century Prussia, the Evangelical church created the word totenfest. Totenfest refers to the remembrance of those who died during the preceding year. It is traditionally celebrated on the last Sunday of the church year.

Remembering

In the funeral liturgy of the Rabbi's Manual the following words are found:

In the rising of the sun and in its going down,
We remember them.

When we are weary and in need of strength,
We remember them.

When we are lost and sick at heart,
We remember them.

When we have joys we yearn to share,
We remember them.

So long as we live, they too shall live,
For they are now a part of us, as
We remember them.

As Christians we set apart one Sunday of the Church year to remember those we have lost. This dedication of a Lord's Day to remembering speaks to the importance of what we do on Totenfest.

Our remembering finds its origins in Jesus' words around a table on the last night of his life, when he told us to remember. At Christ's table we are told to remember that it was a night of betrayal that we were given the greatest gift of love. It was a night filled with hurt and sorrow, disappointment, fear, and great pain.

This paradox of great love mixed with great pain is an inescapable condition of our humanity, a humanity which our God experienced in its fullness. This paradox tells us that if we dare to love deeply, we risk being hurt deeply.

When we find ourselves in the midst of anguish over the losses in our lives, it can be hard to remember the other side of the paradox, the side that tells us that love is also present with the pain. And so we are continually invited to come to Christ's table, to remember this other side of the paradox, the side that tells us just how deeply we are cherished by God ... "this is my body broken for you ... this cup is poured out in my blood."

This Totenfest as we remember and experience the pain that comes from loving, let us also remember the promise of Christ's table that never do we know pain without being held by love.

Peace to You,
Rev. Cathy

I am the resurrection
and
the life.

John 11:25a NIV

Christmas Memorials
December 24, 2004

Christmas Greetings Everyone!

Christmas is an emotionally charged time. We see everything from children bouncing off the walls with excitement, to people experiencing excruciating grief. This emotional energy reminds me of just how powerful of an event is the birth of our Savior.

In our waiting and preparing season of Advent, we all form images of what our Christmas will be like, based on the promises we hear of hope, peace, joy, and love. As children, oftentimes these images are fulfilled on Christmas morning. As adults, we begin to realize that we must search deeper than the veneer of wrapping paper to truly know hope, peace, joy, or love.

In this book are the names of people who helped us find these things along life's journey. Their absence at Christmas can bring a great sense of sadness. We can feel as if we will never again know these things without these people.

On this Christmas Eve, my hope is that we look even deeper still. My hope is that we can look beyond our loved ones, in order to catch a glimpse of the One in whose presence they stand. The One whose presence we celebrate this night being with us - Emmanuel. For our promised Emmanuel continues today what was begun on the night of his birth: the powerful bringing forth of the gifts of hope, peace, joy and love into our world.

This Christmas, as you gaze into the manger, may you find the gift which you seek.

Merry Christmas,
Rev. Cathy
